COURSE DESCRIPTION

Christian Public Leadership in Context

This course will explore Christian Public Leadership by attending to leadership in the midst of particular communities and their distinct contextual realities. In this course students will expand their leadership capacity by leading and being in dialogue with a particular ministry context. With this ministry context as their primary conversation partner students will critically reflect on themselves as leaders, discover the communal nature of leadership, and develop their own leadership practices. Particular attention will be given to praxis, contextualization, integrative approaches to ministry, and competencies connected to student's concentration. Each of the four sections will focus on a particular topic. Section two's topic is: Being Public Leaders in a Public Church. Half course (.5)

Learning Objectives:

- Students will participate in and lead action-reflection praxis as they critically reflect upon how close listening to self and context inform the ways in which they witness to God's activity in the world.
- Students will develop the capacity to contextualize theology, theory, and practices of ministry within a particular community.
- Students will integrate theology, theory, and practices of leadership in a particular community.
- Students will describe their intellectual and vocational formation as a theologian in context.
- Students will begin to develop competence in leading ministries in their area of concentration.

- Students will deepen their understanding of themselves as Christian public Leaders, be able to critically reflect on themselves as leaders, and inhabit reflective and spiritual practices of a lifelong learner.

Reading (required):

- A. Farber-Robertson, Learning While Leading: Increasing Your Effectiveness in Ministry, (Rowman&Littlefield, 2000).
- K. McAlpin, Ministry That Transforms: A Contemplative Process of Theological Reflection (Liturgical Press, 2009). [Only a brief excerpt is required, which will be available for free in moodle.]

Then choose one of the following:

- B. Baldwin and A. Galloway, eds. Living Water: Living Stories, African American Women and their Biblical Stories (CreateSpace, 2014).
- A. Hartke, Transforming: The Bible and the Lives of Transgender Christians (Westminster John Knox, 2018).
- Y. Hertig, ed. Mirrored Reflections: Reframing Biblical Characters (Wipf&Stock, 2010).
- E. Kegler. One Coin Found: How God's Love Stretches to the Margins (Fortress, 2019).

Supplemental reading (if desired):

- Branson, M. and Martinez, J. 2011. Churches, Culture, and Leadership: A Practical Theology of Congregations and Ethnicities. IVP Academic.
- Callahan, Sharon Henderson. 2013. Religious Leadership: A Reference Handbook. Los Angeles: SAGE reference.
- Cormode, Scott. 2013. Making Spiritual Sense: Christian Leaders as Spiritual Interpreters. Wipf&Stock Reprints.
- Jennings, Willie James. 2011. The Christian Imagination: Theology and the Origins of Race. Yale University Press.
- Keifert, Patrick R. 1992. Welcoming the Stranger: A Public Theology of Worship and Evangelism. Minneapolis: Fortress Press.
- Lee, Boyung. 2013. Transforming Congregations Through Community: Faith Formation from the Seminary to the Church. Westminster John Knox.
- Moe-Lobeda, Cynthia D. 2004. Public Church: For the Life of the World. Lutheran voices; Lutheran voices. Minneapolis, MN: Augsburg Fortress.
- Volf, Miroslav. 2011. A Public Faith: How Followers of Christ Should Serve the Common Good. Grand Rapids, Mich.: Brazos Press.

COURSE SCHEDULE

Monthly flow for our learning together

Three times during this course there will be a presentation which will be available via live zoom streaming. My goal is for this presentation to open up themes for our work together, and to offer resources which can be drawn on throughout the rest of the semester. There will also be a small formation group that you will participate in six times during the semester. Finally, you are required to choose a specific professional context in which you will provide leadership based on a contextual learning agreement (for most students, this will take place in a congregational setting).

Please note: Contextual learning agreements are required each semester. Please review your previous learning agreement and either form new goals or include previous goals that were not yet accomplished. This is an essential requirement of this course, because it will give you a place in which to explore and practice leadership with the support of a local mentor.

As with the other semesters of CPL, this class seeks to develop your capacity for leading amidst complexity. In particular this course seeks to develop your phronesis or “practical knowledge and judgment derived from experience in practice” around issues that have to do with our neighbors – both close at hand, and far from us (however we understand those terms). We seek to attend to leadership formation that is integrative, embodied, and relational; to spiritual formation that opens oneself in community to the presence and power of God; and to vocational formation that is grounded in action-reflection shared collaboratively with local congregations and other gatherings.

We seek to support your development of “meta-cognition,” a specific way of learning to reflect upon practice in self-directed and community-focused ways. In doing so we have chosen to use a grading scale which is Pass/Fail for all students. Passing the course requires satisfactorily completing all requirements of the course.

ASSIGNMENTS

LEADERSHIP IN A PARTICULAR MINISTRY CONTEXT

You need to volunteer (or work for pay, if appropriate) a minimum of 5 hours a week or 20 hours a month in a specific ministry and/or nonprofit context. Knowing that your current leadership capacity and experience with various role responsibilities will vary, you need to create a learning agreement with your CPL mentor which clarifies expectations and sets learning goals for the semester. Your final paper (which is a significant case story which you can develop in your learning context over the course of the semester) will include a reflection on your learning based on the learning goals you set out in your learning agreement and your growing ability to engage in double-loop learning (cf. Farber-Robertson). If you do not already have a professional context in which you are currently leading you need to contact David Scherer in the Contextual Learning office for assistance as soon as possible, and definitely prior to March 5th. Contextual learning agreement for this semester is due March 8th, and a final learning agreement assessment is due on May 29. Please review your previous learning agreement and form new goals or previous goals that were not yet accomplished. Your contextual learning agreement should be submitted to moodle by March 8th.

PARTICIPATION IN MONTHLY CLASS SESSIONS AND FORMATION GROUPS

Lectures will be held three times during the semester on Thursday mornings from 9 am to 11 am central time (March 5, April 2, May 7). We will be live streaming these via zoom, and expect your participation. We are aware, however, that geographic distance on occasion can make this time impossible, so there will be zoom recordings online as soon as we can make them available after the lecture. If you cannot participate in the lecture live (either in person or via zoom), you MUST participate in the online forum for that week's lecture.

DEVELOPMENT OF A SPECIFIC CASE STORY

Early in the semester you will draft a case story about an incident in which you personally participated (preferably in a ministry or other professional context), following the instructions available in the case story handout, and drawing on the information in the Farber-Robertson book. This case story can offer grounded content for discussion in your formation group, as you and your peers learn how to embody reflective practice in a professional setting. A first draft of this case story will be due to the professor on April 2nd, and a final revision (please use "track changes" to highlight your revisions) will be due at the conclusion of the course on May 26th. We will explore how to write this case in lecture, and the two books that are required reading will resource your work with it. There is an optional template available in moodle, based on the Farber-Robertson reading, that you will likely find useful for this assignment.

In CPL 1 you were introduced to Osmer's 4-part hermeneutic for practical theology: What happened? (descriptive - empirical), Why did it happen? (interpretive), What should happen? (normative), and What's next? (pragmatic). In this semester of CPL2 you will build on that hermeneutic by deepening your awareness of the cultural elements of the descriptive-empirical, and by adding a layer of spiritual awareness for transformed action (cf. McAlpin). Your initial case study is due April 2nd.

PERSONAL LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT TOOL

Each section of the Christian Public Leader in Context course offers students a chance to engage with a specific leadership development tool as part of your personal and professional formation. Engaging with this tool is an opportunity for reflecting on your own formation and leadership in relation to the topics of this particular section of CPL. Insights from this process should be integrated into both your case story and your final contextual learning assessment. The tool for this course is the Intercultural Developmental Inventory (IDI). More details will be given in class. You must sign up for a one-on-one interpretation session by April 2. Taking the inventory and having it interpreted with a qualified interpreter (cf. David Scherer for details) must be completed by April 24th. If you have already taken the IDI in the last two years, you do not need to take it again. If that is the case, please contact David Scherer by April 2 and let him know that you will be taking at least two of the social attitude tests made available at Project Implicit: <https://implicit.harvard.edu/implicit/> Once you've done that, you can sign up for a conversation with David (or one of his IDI leaders) that must be completed by April 24th.

CONTEXTUAL ASSESSMENT

At the close of the semester you need to revisit your contextual learning agreement with your CPL mentor, and then fill out the online contextual assessment template. This is due May 29.

FINAL COURSE SUBMISSION

At the conclusion of the course you will hand in a case story (1) resourced with the ideas we have been engaging over the semester (cf. Farber-Robertson), (2) with reflection upon your current state of engagement with "diverse neighbors," particularly your insights from the IDI, (3) with a clear statement concerning what you believe it means to be a Christian public leader, and (4) with a few specific plans for how you plan to grow into such leadership. This case story should be no more than 10 pages in length. It should also reflect your responses to the feedback offered to you in relation to the first submission of the case story at mid-term. Note, however, that since various drafts of your case will be engaged in formation over the course of the semester, and your conversation with both the IDI interpreter and your CPL mentor will be a significant part of this final paper, this assignment should feel more like an integration than a new assignment. Your final case story is due May 26th (or May 15th if you are a graduating senior).

GRADING

This is a pass/fail course.

A word on grading. As noted above, this course is pass/fail. To pass the course, you must meet the basic expectations of all the assignments, including handing them in on time. While there are no formal research papers in this course, your writing should be free of grammatical errors and any sources should be cited properly. Assignments will be returned and judged “not completed” if sources are not cited and/or grammatical errors are problematic. Late assignments will be accepted only if you receive permission in advance and make alternative arrangements with me before the due date. Please note the rubric below for specific elements necessary.

POLICIES OF LUTHER SEMINARY

ADA Compliance Statement

Reasonable accommodation will be provided to any student with a disability who is registered with the Office of Student Affairs and requests needed accommodation. If you are a student with a disability (e.g., physical, learning, psychiatric, vision, hearing, etc.) and think that you might need special assistance or accommodation in this class or any other class, please contact the Office of Student Affairs or contact your instructor directly.

Academic Honesty

Members of the Luther Seminary community are expected to conduct themselves responsibly and honestly in academic matters. Cheating and plagiarism are serious offenses against this expectation and are subject to disciplinary action.

If instances of cheating or plagiarism are detected, one of the disciplinary actions shall follow: either the instructor records a failure for the assignment or examination, or the instructor records a failure for the course. In either case, the instructor shall bring the matter to the Office of the Academic Dean and the Office of the Dean of Students, and the question whether further disciplinary action should be considered will be determined in consultation with the instructor, the Office of the Academic Dean, and the Office of the Dean of Students. See the current Student Handbook for more details on this matter.

Plagiarism

"Plagiarism is the dishonest act of presenting the words or thoughts of another writer as if they were your own.... If you quote from anything at all...you must put quotation marks around it, or set it off from your text. If you summarize or paraphrase an author's words, you must clearly indicate where the summary or paraphrase begins and ends.... In every instance you must formally acknowledge the written source from which you took the material." [Quoted from James A. W. Heffernan and John E. Lincoln, Writing: A College Handbook (New York: W. W. Norton, 1982), p.457.]

Some examples of plagiarism could include:

- Copying from a source text (whether online or offline) without proper acknowledgment.
- Turning in another student's work with or without that student's knowledge.
- Copying materials word-for-word from a source text, supplying proper documentation, but leaving out quotation marks.
- Paraphrasing materials from a source text without appropriate documentation.
- Turning in a paper copied from a website.
- Recycling your own work from a previous assignment, without permission of the instructor or proper citation

If instances of cheating or plagiarism are detected, one of the disciplinary actions shall follow: either the instructor records a failure for the assignment or examination, or the instructor records a failure for the course. In either case, the instructor shall bring the matter to the Office of the Academic Dean and the Office of the Dean of Students, and the question whether further disciplinary action should be considered will be determined in consultation with the instructor, the Office of the Academic Dean, and the Office of the Dean of Students. See the current Student Handbook for more details on this matter.

Title IX Statement

Luther Seminary is committed to fostering a safe, productive learning environment. Title IX and Luther policy prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex. Sexual misconduct — including harassment, domestic and dating violence, sexual assault, and stalking — is also prohibited at Luther.

Luther Seminary encourages anyone experiencing sexual misconduct to talk to someone about what happened, so they can get the support they need and we can respond appropriately. If you wish to speak confidentially about an incident of sexual misconduct, want more information about filing a report, or have questions about school policies and procedures, please contact our Title IX Coordinator, Peter Susag, who can be found on our school's website.

Luther Seminary is legally obligated to investigate reports of sexual misconduct, and therefore it cannot guarantee the confidentiality of a report, but it will consider a request for confidentiality and respect it to the extent possible.

As a teacher, I am also required by Luther Seminary to report incidents of sexual misconduct and thus cannot guarantee confidentiality. I must provide our Title IX coordinator with relevant details such as the names of those involved in the incident.
